Origins

Different forms of football have existed for centuries.

(For more on the development of football sports, see football.

) In Britain, football games may have been played as early as the time of Roman occupation in the 1st century bce.

During the 14th and 15th centuries ce, Shrove Tuesday football matches became annual traditions in local communities, and many of these games continued well into the 19th century. These localized versions of folk football (a violent sport distinctive for its large teams and lack of rules) gradually found favour within the English public (independent) schools, where they were modified and adapted into one of two forms: a dribbling game, played primarily with the feet, that was promoted at Eton and Harrow, and a handling game favoured by Rugby, Marlborough, and Cheltenham.

Game playing, particularly football, was encouraged at Rugby School by influential headmaster Thomas Arnold (1828–42), and many boys educated at this time were instrumental in the expansion of the game.

Rugby football soon became one of the most significant sports in the promotion of English and, later, British imperial manliness.

The game's virtues were promoted by books such as Thomas Hughes's Tom Brown's School Days (1857).

The cult of manliness that resulted centred on the public schools and the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, where boys were sent to learn how to become young gentlemen.

Part of the schoolboy's training was a commitment to arduous physical activity, and, by the late 19th century, rugby and cricket had become the leading sports that developed the "civilized" manly behaviour of the elite.

It was believed that rugby football instilled in the "muscular Christian" gentleman the values of unselfishness, fearlessness, teamwork, and self-control.

Graduates of these public schools and of Oxford and Cambridge formed the first football clubs, which led to the institutionalization of rugby.

Once they had left school, many young men wanted to continue playing the game of their youth, and the early annual matches between alumni and current senior students were not enough to satisfy these players.

Football clubs were formed in the mid-19th century, with one of the very first rugby clubs appearing at Blackheath in 1858.

Rugby enthusiasm also spread rapidly to Ireland and Scotland, with a club founded at the University of Dublin in 1854 and the formation by the Old Boys of Edinburgh of the Edinburgh Academicals Rugby Football Club in 1858.

In 1863 the tradition of club matches began in England with Blackheath playing Richmond.

Representatives of several leading football clubs met in 1863 to try to devise a common set of rules for football.

Disputes arose over handling the ball and "hacking," the term given to the tactics of tripping an opponent and kicking his shins.

Both handling and hacking were allowed under rugby's rules but disallowed in other forms of football. Led by F.W.

Campbell of Blackheath, the rugby men refused to budge over hacking, calling those against the practice "unmanly.

" Though Campbell's group was in the minority, it refused to agree to the rules established for the new Football Association (FA) even though many elements of rugby rules were included in early compromises.

Ultimately, rugby was left outside the FA.

Despite the initial reluctance to abandon hacking, rugby clubs began to abolish the practice during the late 1860s.

Blackheath banned it in 1865, and Richmond supported a similar prohibition in 1866.

Rugby received bad publicity after a Richmond player was killed in a practice match in 1871, prompting leading clubs to respond to Richmond and Blackheath's call for an organizational meeting.

Thus, in 1871 members of leading rugby clubs met to form the Rugby Football Union (RFU), which became the governing body for the sport.

By this time, hacking had largely disappeared from club rugby, though it remained a part of the game's "character building" qualities at Rugby School.

As a result of its continued adherence to the practice, Rugby School did not join the RFU until 1890.

Sean "Diddy" Combs enfrenta otra demanda por agresión sexual

El rapero y empresario Sean "Diddy" Combs ha sido demandado nuevamente por agresión sexual, lo que marca la séptima demanda de este tipo en los últimos meses.

April Lampros afirma que Combs la agredió sexualmente en cuatro ocasiones entre 1995 y alrededor del 2000, incluyendo un incidente en el que ella fue obligada a tomar éxtasis por Combs. También afirma que "fue informada de que supuestamente Combs había grabado sus relaciones sexuales sin su conocimiento y se las mostró a múltiples personas".

Lampros dice que conoció a Combs cuando era estudiante de moda, y que después de intentar distanciarse de Combs following a second alleged assault, he threatened her with physical violence and said he would blacklist her in the fashion industry.

Ella dijo en un comunicado: "Estoy segura de que la justicia prevalecerá y se quitará la venda para que ninguna otra mujer tenga que pasar por lo que yo viví."

Combs no ha comentado sobre la demanda, pero ha negado previamente otras acusaciones de agresión sexual. The Guardian se ha puesto en contacto con sus representantes para obtener comentarios.

Combs ha enfrentado una serie de demandas similares en meses recientes, habilitadas por la legislación de Nueva York que permite a las víctimas de agresión sexual presentar demandas civiles después de que haya expirado el plazo de prescripción, lo que significa que Combs puede ser responsable de incidentes que datan de la década de 1990.

En noviembre, su exnovia Cassie afirmó "un ciclo de abuso, violencia y tráfico sexual" durante más de una década hasta 2024. Combs "niega vehementemente estas ofensivas y escandalosas acusaciones", dijo su abogado, y la demanda se resolvió al día siguiente. A principios de este mes, se hizo público un video de Combs agrediendo físicamente a Cassie, y Combs se disculpó después, diciendo "asumo toda la responsabilidad ... estaba disgustado en ese momento cuando lo hice. Estoy disgustado ahora". Cassie emitió su propio comunicado después de la disculpa, escribiendo en parte: "Mi única petición es que todos abran su corazón para creer a las víctimas la primera vez".

Tres demandas más siguieron a la de Cassie en el resto de 2024, incluida una acusación de que Combs violó a una mujer cuando tenía 17 años. Después de esas acusaciones, Combs dijo: "No hice ninguna de las cosas terribles que se afirman. Lucharé por mi nombre, mi familia y por la verdad".

En febrero, el productor musical Rodney Jones Jr afirmó que Combs lo agredió sexualmente, con un abogado de Combs llamando a las acusaciones "ficción pura". En marzo, agentes federales allanaron las propiedades de Combs en Los Ángeles y Miami como parte de una investigación de tráfico sexual, descrita por el abogado de Combs como "un uso excesivo grosero de la fuerza de nivel militar". Combs no ha sido acusado de ningún delito por las autoridades federales.

A principios de esta semana, la exmodelo Crystal McKinney afirmó que Combs la obligó a practicarle sexo oral en un incidente de 2003. Combs no ha comentado todavía sobre esa demanda.
