Manejo de vello facial en brasileño portugués

Tenemos muchos folículos pilosos en nuestro rostro y, aunque suelen ser finos y claros, pueden ser estimulados para crecer más gruesos y oscuros mediante medicamentos, hormonas o genética, según el Dr. Tapan Patel en Phi Clinic.

Estoy contento de que ya no estés depilándote más: esto a menudo conduce a manchas oscuras y cicatrices. También puede perforar la piel y causar irritación e infección si las pinzas no son estériles. ¿Qué es mejor? "Las afeitadoras que pueden deslizarse sobre la superficie para eliminar el vello son más suaves, al igual que las cremas depilatorias sensibles, aunque es importante realizar una prueba de parche previamente para verificar reacciones alérgicas, dice el Dr. Ahmed El Muntasar, médico general y esteticista.

Para resultados duraderos, la eliminación permanente del vello con láser - que utiliza luz concentrada para penetrar en el folículo y prevenir el crecimiento futuro - es definitivamente la mejor opción. La electroólisis puede ser dolorosa y el tratamiento con luz pulsada intensa (IPL) no funciona en todos los tonos de piel. Un corrector de color melocotón que contrarreste la oscuridad puede ayudar a neutralizar el vello entre sesiones. Pero sugiero cambiar a un centro que ofrezca el láser Alma soprano titanio. "Combinamos tres longitudes de onda, lo que nos permite tratar el folículo a diferentes profundidades, lo que lo hace adecuado para el vello rebelde o difícil de tratar", dice Patel. Lo crucial es que puedes afeitarte (pero no depilarte o arrancarte) entre sesiones, y necesitas entre seis y 10 sesiones de promedio para ver una diferencia.

Consejos de mantenimiento

- Evitar la depilación con pinzas para prevenir manchas oscuras y cicatrices.
- Utilizar afeitadoras y cremas depilatorias sensibles para un enfoque más suave.
- Considerar la eliminación permanente del vello con láser para resultados duraderos.
- Probar un corrector de color melocotón para disimular el vello entre sesiones.
