A Bet365 account in the name of McCann, who was a 19-year-old student at the time, placed a stake of almost £25,000 on 12 horses running in races at Bath, Kempton Park and Naas on 22 June 2024. Bet365 accepted the bets – a combined total of 960 £13 each-way Lucky 15s – which were mostly successful and returned a total payout of £984,833.

However, Bet365 refused to pay the winnings, claiming the original stake for the bets had been provided by a third party in contravention of the firm's terms and conditions. It also refused to refund the £25,000 stake.

McCann launched a legal action against Bet365 two years ago and the latest in a series of court dates working towards a full hearing of the case was scheduled for Friday morning.

However, the listing was removed earlier this week and an administrator at Belfast's high court confirmed on Wednesday that McCann's legal team had lodged an official "notice of discontinuance" in the case.
