Gonzalo Garcia Pelayo is another who has taken advantage of wheel bias to create his fortune, but for Pelayo it became something of a family business.

The Spanish national was born in 1947, and his initial interest was film. He studied at film school in the 60s but actually ended up working in radio, then moving across into record producing.

He had a whole career in the entertainment industry before he became interested in roulette, convinced that a man made object such as the roulette wheel could not be truly unbiased.

It was the early 90s when he began looking into this seriously, coming to the conclusion that even millimetre differences between pockets, slight imperfections in the gears that spin the wheel, and even a slightly unlevel floor could all create wheel bias.

Of course, Garcia needed to prove these theories before he began staking any real money on roulette, so he started visiting the Casino Gran Madrid and recorded the results of thousands of spins on the wheels there.

Two of his children, Ivan and Vanessa, were brought onboard to help him at this stage, because the data they were collecting was specific to each wheel. That meant more than one pair of eyes were needed.

Together, they collecting over 30,000 results, and once they had enough information the data was painstakingly fed into a computer specially built by Garcia to analyse the results.

The computer could then tell him which numbers or areas of the wheel more most likely to come up on a spin.

Confident in what he had found,

Garcia worked out that wheel bias gave him a 6% edge over the house, and was ready to put some money down.

Pelayo was starting with a bank roll of justR$2,200, and he knew he would suffer losing streaks along the way, so he still needed a little luck as his strategy was only going to be successful over the long term.

Initially lady luck evaded him, and he ended up losing half of his bankroll, but he persevered, gaining ground and eventually building his bankroll enough to set his family to work on other tables in the same casino.

They would sometimes visit 6 times a week, each person playing the biased numbers specific to their wheel, and by splitting the bankroll they also drew less attention while still making profit.

Eventually they had enough to increase their stake size, and after just a few months that initial R$2,200 was worth more than R$100,000.

The casino did eventually cotton on, and tried a few things to stop the Pelayo's winning streak; they ordered the dealers to spin the ball faster, made accusations of cheating, and even tried switching the wheels between tables, but the family by now knew them so well that they could tell the wheels apart.

In the end, the matter was settled in court, with the casino's attempts to ban the family thrown out by the Spanish Supreme Court, who found that wheel bias was a form of advantage play and not cheating.

The wheels were eventually changed and so the bias was gone, but not before Garcia and his family had banked more than R$1 million of the casino's money.

With their plans scuppered at home, it was time for the Pelayo family to hit the road. They set off on something of a European tour of casinos, starting off in Amsterdam where they racked up R$400,000 over 4 months before eventually being discovered.

They hit a personal best in Vienna when they won R$110,000 in a single night, but things were getting trickier for the family as the casino industry began warning each other about the group.

This meant that they were sometimes asked to leave a casino only a few hours after first entering a new venue, making it almost impossible to track results and discover any bias let alone take advantage of it.

The pressure of their enterprise took its toll and a few members of the family decided to call it quits and head home, exhausted by the stress and from being away from home for so long. Those who remained decided to leave Europe behind and try their luck in Las Vegas, and this is where things finally got too much.

American tables had an extra zero, making it more difficult to get a significant edge and make money, not to mention the increased security measures over there. Nonetheless, the group managed to bag another R$500,000 before the head of the family, Garcia himself, finally succumbed to the pressure and collapsed.

This was a clear sign for them to stop, which they did, heading back to Spain to enjoy a more relaxed lifestyle for a while.

A conservative estimate puts the family's total earnings by the time they had finished at more than R$2 million.

He might have finished with roulette, but Garcia was a statistician and maths geek, so he couldn't keep away from this sort of thing for long.

He eventually turned his hand to pools betting and then poker, sticking to the world of probability in games of chance.

He also went back into film making after a 30 year hiatus, and he was the inspiration behind another, Winning Streak. This 2012 movie was originally called The Pelayos, and was released to lukewarm reviews to put it politely.

His escapades were also the topic of a documentary and a book.

In 2024, he launched a company called

Israeli Aereo en Rafah deja 45 Muertos y Provoca Indignación Mundial

Un ataque aéreo israelí que causó un gran incendio en un área para desplazados en Rafah ha dejado 45 muertos, según han informado los medios. Las imágenes de niños quemados y desmembrados han provocado una ola de indignación entre los líderes mundiales y han puesto en peligro las conversaciones de alto el fuego.

Un bombardeo nocturno que, según las FDI, tenía como objetivo a militantes de Hamas de alto rango en un ataque preciso parece haber iniciado fuegos que se extendieron rápidamente por las tiendas de campaña y el alojamiento improvisado, abrumando a un hospital de campaña operado por el Comité Internacional de la Cruz Roja y a hospitales locales sobrecargados.

"Sacamos a la gente que estaba en un estado insoportable", dijo Mohammed Abuassa, quien acudió rápidamente al lugar en el barrio noroeste de Tel al-Sultan, a la Associated Press.

"Sacamos a niños que estaban en pedazos. Sacamos a jóvenes y ancianos. El fuego en el campamento era irreal".

El ministerio de Salud en la zona controlada por Hamas dijo que aproximadamente la mitad de los muertos eran mujeres, niños y adultos mayores. Niños descalzos caminaban entre las ruinas humeantes el lunes mientras continuaban las búsquedas de los muertos y las familias en duelo se preparaban para enterrar a sus seres queridos.

El primer ministro israelí, Benjamin Netanyahu, dijo en el parlamento que "algo trágicamente malo" sucedió con el ataque aéreo. "Estamos investigando el incidente y llegaremos a conclusiones, porque es nuestra política", dijo.

Los Estados Unidos, el aliado más fiel e importante de Israel y su principal proveedor de armas, describieron las imágenes del después como devastadoras.

El ataque, uno de los más letales en un solo incidente en la guerra de ocho meses hasta la fecha, se produjo dos días después de que el Tribunal Internacional de Justicia en La Haya, que arbitra entre Estados, ordenara a Israel que detuviera inmediatamente su operación en Rafah. Más del 85% de la población palestina había buscado refugio en el área después de huir de los combates en otras partes, y un millón de personas han tenido que volver a mudarse desde que comenzó la operación terrestre de Israel el 6 de mayo.

Las entregas de ayuda se han ralentizado hasta un hilo, con los cruces de Rafah y Kerem Shalom prácticamente bloqueados.

Reacciones Internacionales

- Francia, aliado europeo de Israel, dijo que estaba indignado por el ataque en Rafah. "Estas operaciones deben cesar", publicó el presidente francés, Emmanuel Macron, en Twitter. "No hay zonas seguras en Rafah para los civiles palestinos. Condeno esto en los términos más enérgicos y pido un alto el fuego inmediato".
 - El jefe de la Comisión de la Unión Africana, Moussa Faki Mahamat, dijo: "El estado de Israel continúa violando la ley internacional impunemente y en desprecio de una decisión de la Corte Internacional de Justicia que ordena el fin de su acción militar en Rafah".
 - Italia dijo que los bombardeos como el del domingo tendrían repercusiones duraderas para Israel. "Israel con esta decisión está sembrando odio, arraigando el odio que involucrará a sus hijos y nietos", dijo el ministro de Defensa, Guido Crosetto, a Sky TG24.
 - El jefe de política exterior de la UE, Josep Borrell, tuiteó: "Horrorizado por las noticias que llegan de Rafah sobre los ataques israelíes que han matado a docenas de desplazados, incluidos niños pequeños. Condeno esto en los términos más enérgicos".
