Lowball or low poker is a variant of poker in which the normal ranking of hands is inverted. Several variations of lowball poker exist, differing in whether aces are treated as high cards or low cards, and whether straights and flushes are used.

Low-poker ranking [ edit ]

Lowball inverts the normal ranking of poker hands.

There are three methods of ranking low hands, called ace-to-five low, deuce-to-seven low, and ace-to-six low. The 'ace-to-five' method is most common. A sub-variant within this category is 'high-low poker', in which the highest and lowest hands split the pot, with the highest hand taking any odd chips if the pot does not divide equally.

Sometimes straights and/or flushes count in determining which hand is highest but not in determining which hand is lowest, being reckoned as a no-pair hand in the latter instance, so that a player with such a holding can win both ways and thus take the entire pot.

Lowball variants [ edit ]

The most popular forms of lowball are ace-to-five lowball (also known as California lowball), and deuce-to-seven lowball (also known as Kansas City lowball). Ace-to-five lowball gets its name because the best hand at that form is 5-4-3-2-A. In ace-to-five lowball straights and flushes do not prevent a hand from being low. You win by simply having the five lowest cards. Deuce-to seven lowball gets its name because the best hand at that form is 7-5-4-3-2 (not of the same suit).[1]

Ace-to-five low is the most common method for evaluating low hands in poker, nearly universal in U.S. casinos, especially in high-low split games.

As in all low hand games, pairs count against the player. That is, any hand with no pair defeats any hand with a pair; one pair hands defeat two pair or three of a kind, etc. No-pair hands are compared starting with the highest-ranking card, just as in high poker, except that the high hand loses. In ace-to-five low, straights and flushes are ignored, and aces play as the lowest card.

For example, the hand 8-5-4-3-2 defeats 9-7-6-4-3, because eight-high is lower than nine-high. The hand 7-6-5-4-3 defeats both, because seven-high is lower still, even though it would be a straight if played for high. Aces are low, so 8-5-4-3-A defeats 8-5-4-3-2. Also, A-A-9-5-3 (a pair of aces) defeats 2-2-5-4-3 (a pair of deuces), but both of those would lose to any no-pair hand such as K-J-8-6-4. In the rare event that hands with pairs tie, kickers are used just as in high poker (but reversed): 3-3-6-4-2 defeats 3-3-6-5-A.

This is called ace-to-five low because the lowest (and therefore best) possible hand is 5-4-3-2-A, called a "wheel". The next best possible hand is 6-4-3-2-A, followed by 6-5-3-2-A, 6-5-4-2-A, 6-5-4-3-A, 6-5-4-3-2, 7-4-3-2-A, 7-5-3-2-A, etc.

When speaking, low hands are referred to by their highest-ranking card or cards. Any nine-high hand can be called "a nine", and is defeated by any "eight". Two cards are frequently used: the hand 8-6-5-4-2 can be called "an eight-six" and will defeat "an eight-seven" such as 8-7-5-4-A.

Another

common notation is calling a particular low hand "smooth" or "rough". A smooth low hand is one where the remaining cards after the highest card are themselves very low; a rough low hand is one where the remaining cards are high. For instance, 8-7-6-3-A would be referred to as a "rough eight", but 8-4-3-2-A would be referred to as a "smooth eight". Some players refer to a hand containing a 4-3-2-A (in ace-to-five low or ace-to-six low) or a 5-4-3-2 (in deuce-to-seven low) as a "nut" (thus, in ace-to-five or ace-to-six, a 7-4-3-2-A would be called a "seven nut").

High-low split games with ace-to-five low are usually played cards speak, that is, without a declaration.

Frequently a qualifier is required for low (typically 8-high or 9-high). Some hands (particularly small straights and flushes) may be both the low hand and the high hand, and are particularly powerful (or particularly dangerous if they are mediocre both ways). Winning both halves of the pot in a split-pot game is called "scooping" or "hogging" the pot. The perfect hand in such a game is called a "steel wheel", 5-4-3-2-A of one suit, which plays both as perfect low and a straight flush high. Note that it is possible—though unlikely—to have this hand and still lose money. If the pot has three players, and one other player has a mixed-suit wheel, and a third has better straight flush, the higher straight flush wins the high half of the pot, and the two wheels split the low half, hence the steel wheel wins only a quarter of a three-way pot.

Ace-to-five lowball, a five-card draw variant, is often played with a joker added to the deck. The joker plays as the lowest card not already present in the hand (in other words, it is a wild card): 7-5-4-Joker-A, for example, the joker plays as a 2. This can cause some interesting effects for high-low split games. Let's say that Alice has 6-5-4-3-2 (called a "straight six")--a reasonably good hand for both high and low. Burt has Joker-6-5-4-3. By applying the rule for wild cards in straights, Burt's joker plays as a 7 for high, giving him a seven-high straight to defeat Alice's six-high straight. For low, the joker plays as an ace—the lowest card not in Burt's hand—and his hand also defeats Alice for low, because his low hand is 6-5-4-3-A, lower than her straight six by one notch. Jokers are very powerful in high-low split games.

A wheel or bicycle is the poker hand 5-4-3-2-A, regardless of suit, which is a five-high straight, the lowest-ranking of the straights.

In ace-to-five low poker, where aces are allowed to play as low and straights and flushes do not count against a hand's "low" status, this is the best possible hand. In high/low split games, it is both the best possible low hand and a competitive high hand. The best deuce-to-seven low hand, 7-5-4-3-2, is also sometimes called "the wheel".

Ace-to-six low is not as commonly used as the ace-to-five low method, but it is common among home games in the eastern region of the United States, some parts of the mid-west, and also common in the United Kingdom (it is the traditional ranking of London lowball, a stud poker variant).

As in all lowball games, pairs and trips are bad: that is, any hand with no pair defeats any hand with a pair; one pair hands defeat two pair or trips, etc.

No-pair hands are compared starting with the highest-ranking card, just as in high poker, except that the high hand loses. In ace-to-six low, straights and flushes are accounted for (as compared to Ace-to-five) and count as high (and are therefore bad), and aces play as the lowest card.

For example, the hand 8-5-4-3-2 defeats 9-7-6-4-3, because eight-high is lower than nine-high. The hand 7-6-5-4-2 defeats both, because seven-high is lower still. The hand 7-6-5-4-3 would lose, because it is a straight.

Aces are low, so 8-5-4-3-A defeats 8-5-4-3-2. Also, A-A-9-5-3 (a pair of aces) defeats 2-2-5-4-3 (a pair of deuces), but both of those would lose to any no-pair hand such as K-J-8-6-4. In the rare event that hands with pairs tie, kickers are used just as in high poker (but reversed): 3-3-6-4-2 defeats 3-3-6-5-A.

It is called ace-to-six low because the best possible hand is 6-4-3-2-A (also known as a Chicago Wheel or a 64), followed by 6-5-3-2-A, 6-5-4-2-A, 6-5-4-3-A, 7-4-3-2-A, 7-5-3-2-A, etc.

When speaking, low hands are referred to by their highest-ranking card or cards. Any nine-high hand can be called "a nine", and is defeated by any "eight". Two cards are frequently used: the hand 8-6-5-4-2 can be called "an eight-six" and will defeat "an eight-seven" such as 8-7-5-4-A.

A wild card plays as whatever rank would make the lowest hand. Thus, in 6-5-Joker-2-A, the joker plays as a 3, while in Joker-5-4-3-2 it would play as a 7 (an ace or six would make a straight).

High-low split games with ace-to-six low are usually played with a declaration.

Deuce-to-seven low is often called Kansas City lowball (the no-limit single-draw variation) or just "low poker". It is almost the direct opposite of standard poker: high hand loses. It is not as commonly used as the ace-to-five low method.

As in all lowball games, pairs and trips are bad: that is, any hand with no pair defeats any hand with a pair; one pair hands defeat two pair or trips, etc.

No-pair hands are compared starting with the highest-ranking card, just as in high poker, except that the high hand loses. In deuce-to-seven low, straights and flushes count as high (and are therefore bad). Aces are always high (and therefore bad).

For

example, the hand 8-5-4-3-2 defeats 9-7-6-4-3, because eight-high is lower than nine-high. The hand 7-6-5-4-2 defeats both, because seven-high is lower still. The hand 7-6-5-4-3 would lose, because it is a straight. Aces are high, so Q-8-5-4-3 defeats A-8-5-4-3. In the rare event that hands with pairs tie, kickers are used just as in high poker (but reversed): 3-3-6-4-2 defeats 3-3-6-5-2.

Since the ace always plays high, A-5-4-3-2 (also called the Nut Ace) is not considered a straight; is simply ace-high no pair (it would therefore lose to any king-high, but would defeat

A-6-4-3-2).

The best possible hand is 7-5-4-3-2 (hence the name deuce-to-seven low), followed by 7-6-4-3-2, 7-6-5-3-2, 7-6-5-4-2, 8-5-4-3-2, 8-6-4-3-2, etc. Hands are sometimes referred to by their absolute rank, e.g. 7-5-4-3-2 (#1, said 'number one', see table).

Hand Name (#) Other Name 7-5-4-3-2 #1 Seven perfect, The nuts, Number one, The wheel 7-6-4-3-2 #2 7-6-5-3-2 #3 7-6-5-4-2 #4 8-5-4-3-2 #5 Nut Eight, Eight perfect 8-6-4-3-2 #6 8-6-5-3-2 #7 8-6-5-4-2 #8 8-6-5-4-3 #9 Rough eighty-six 8-7-4-3-2 #10 Eighty-seven smooth 8-7-5-3-2 #11 8-7-5-4-2 #12 Average eight 8-7-5-4-3 #13 8-7-6-3-2 #14 8-7-6-4-2 #15 8-7-6-4-3 #16 8-7-6-5-2 #17 8-7-6-5-3 #18 Rough eighty-seven, The Dave P. 9-5-4-3-2 #19 Nut Nine, Nine perfect split games with deuce-to-seven low are usually played with a declaration.

Kiribati, a pacífico país rodeado de agua, se enfrenta a una grave escasez de agua dulce

El país del Pacífico de Kiribati puede estar rodeado de agua, pero en tierra su población se está quedando sin agua. El océano que lo rodea está avanzando constantemente, contaminando los pozos subterráneos y filtrando sal en el suelo.

"Nuestras aguas han sido infectadas", dice Christine Tekanene, activista climática y estudiante de derecho. "Aquellos que se ven afectados, ahora no pueden sobrevivir con el agua que cambió después del aumento del nivel del mar."

La crisis de agua dulce es solo una de las muchas amenazas impulsadas por el aumento del nivel del mar en Kiribati. Su gente vive en una serie de atolones, que alcanzan apenas unos metros por encima de una extensa franja del Océano Pacífico. A medida que las temperaturas globales aumentan y los glaciares se derriten, Kiribati - y otras naciones de bajura similares - están experimentando inundaciones extremas y regulares, erosión costera frecuente y una inseguridad alimentaria y hídrica persistente.

Esta semana, la Asamblea General de las Naciones Unidas celebrará una reunión de alto nivel para abordar las amenazas existenciales planteadas por el aumento del nivel del mar, ya que el tema asciende en la agenda internacional; el año pasado, el Consejo de Seguridad de la ONU debatió el tema por primera vez.

La reunión del miércoles tiene como objetivo construir un consenso político sobre la acción para abordar las consecuencias sociales, económicas y legales generalizadas del aumento del nivel del mar.

El representante de Samoa en la ONU, Fatumanava Dr Pa'olelei Luteru, dice que la reunión de la ONU es muy necesaria y "extremadamente importante" para las naciones insulares.

"Económicamente, militarmente, no somos poderosos", dice Luteru, quien también desempeña el cargo actual de presidente del Grupo de Estados de Islas en Desarrollo (AOSIS). "Al menos en el contexto de la ONU y el sistema multilateral tenemos la posibilidad y la oportunidad de participar y lograr algunas de las cosas que son una prioridad para nosotros."

"Aún estamos luchando"

El aumento del nivel del mar presenta una gama de cuestiones controvertidas, entre las que destaca si las naciones de bajura y sus gobiernos deben comenzar a prepararse para la reubicación de sus poblaciones. Mientras que algunos países, como Tuvalu, han aceptado esta posibilidad y están abogando por el reconocimiento internacional de su soberanía incluso si sus islas desaparecen, otros parecen más cautelosos.

Hace una década, Kiribati compró tierras en Fiji como un posible refugio para sus ciudadanos, pero el gobierno ha reconsiderado recientemente esa estrategia.

El embajador Luteru dice que muchos estados insulares pequeños no están dispuestos a ceder su futuro y "no han utilizado la palabra 'existencial'" al referirse a la amenaza del cambio climático sobre su soberanía.

"Hay una expresión clara de la gente de que no quieren mudarse", dice.

Mientras tanto, Tekanene dice que muchos isleños del Pacífico se sienten "ofendidos" cuando se les pregunta sobre la desaparición de sus tierras.

"Aún estamos luchando, no nos estamos ahogando", dice.

Algunos expertos argumentan, sin embargo, que los líderes mundiales deben enfrentar urgentemente la realidad de las tierras desaparecidas para millones que viven en pequeñas islas y áreas costeras.

El Dr Benjamin Strauss, CEO y científico principal de Climate Central, advierte que aunque los peores impactos del aumento del nivel del mar se pueden retrasar, no se pueden deshacer.

"La subida del nivel del mar a largo plazo que ya hemos encerrado es casi segura para inundar un gran número de atolones del Pacífico", dice. "Al final, hay velocidades y cantidades de aumento del nivel del mar que harán imposible permanecer en muchas islas."

Kamal Amakrane del Global Centre for Climate Mobility, quien ha estado ayudando a la Asamblea General de la ONU a prepararse para la reunión de alto nivel, subraya que si bien las personas tienen "el derecho a permanecer" en sus tierras natales, es igualmente importante garantizar opciones seguras y dignas para aquellos que se ven obligados a reubicarse.

"Las instituciones internacionales y regionales deben habilitar las vías de movilidad climática", dice Amakrane por correo electrónico.

Tanto la creación de estas vías migratorias como el desarrollo de soluciones para proteger las islas para que la gente pueda quedarse requerirán una financiación importante de naciones más ricas.

Kiribati está buscando miles de millones de dólares de donantes extranjeros para elevar sus islas y escapar de los peores daños del aumento del nivel del mar.

"Sería necesaria algún tipo de ingeniería geofísica masiva, de imaginación increíble, para garantizar que las naciones insulares puedan resistir los impactos del aumento del nivel del mar", dice Strauss.

"Muchas de las naciones atollo no tienen un gran número de recursos", dice Strauss. "Entonces, no está claro cuánto podrían invertir ellos y cuánto el mundo decidiría invertir."

"Queremos garantizar que las naciones desarrolladas asuman la responsabilidad por las emisiones históricas que contribuyen a esta crisis"

Para Kiribati, la situación se espera que empeore mucho.

Un reciente estudio de la Nasa encontró que el país verá aumentos en el nivel del mar de hasta 50 centímetros para 2050, ya sea que las emisiones globales se reduzcan antes o no.

Si las predicciones más pesimistas se hacen realidad, algunas de sus islas serán inhabitables, si no se pierden por completo, para finales de siglo.

Ante una catástrofe tan inminente, activistas como Tekanene instan a los líderes mundiales a hacer más para proteger su país.

"Queremos garantizar que las naciones desarrolladas asuman la responsabilidad por las emisiones históricas que contribuyen a esta crisis", dice.

"Ellos pueden ayudar a prevenirlo... pueden hacerlo más que nosotros."
